

FEDERAL CONSOLIDATION

Should federal consolidation be part of your repayment strategy?

Federal consolidation is a process whereby you pay off multiple federal loans with one new federal loan. You are literally trading debt for debt, in the exact same amount.

In general, while borrowers with multiple loans are eligible to consolidate, most recent graduates do not need to consolidate, since their federal Direct Loans tend to be serviced by ONE loan servicer and their loans have FIXED rates (and you do not get a lower rate when you consolidate). The information below should help you determine whether federal consolidation should be part of your repayment strategy. More information is available at www.StudentAid.gov/consolidation, including the online application. However, we advise you to read this document first, as you cannot undo a federal consolidation loan. Semantics are important:

- When you use the term CONSOLIDATION, that means FEDERAL Consolidation with the government's Federal Direct Loan program.
- When you use the term REFINANCING, that means refinancing with a PRIVATE LENDER.

POTENTIAL ADVANTAGES TO CONSOLIDATION

- Access to the repayment plan PAYE (Pay As You Earn), if you consolidate prior to July 1, 2024, as no new applications for PAYE will be accepted effective July 1, 2024
 - See our PAYE versus SAVE comparison chart on our homepage for details on PAYE
- Convenience
 - One loan, one loan servicer, one payment, one place to file forms
 - REMINDER: You already have the convenience of one payment if all your federal loans are with the same loan servicer, which is highly likely
- Helps maximize potential forgiveness in the Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF) program by converting any eligible federal non-Direct Loans into a Direct Loan balance
 - Only Direct Loans are eligible for Public Service Loan Forgiveness
 - REMINDER: Check your portfolio, your federal student loan portfolio is likely made up of all Direct Loans (Direct Sub, Direct Unsub, Direct PLUS)
 - Consider consolidating any eligible federal non-Direct Loans (for example, Perkins, LDS, and HPSL) into a Direct Consolidation Loan in order to maximize your potential forgiveness under PSLF, assuming other PSLF eligibility criteria are met
- May allow some borrowers to repay their entire balance with SAVE (Saving on a Valuable Education, formerly REPAYE).
 - PAYE and SAVE repayment plans are only available on Direct Loans
 - REMINDER: See above, good chance you already have Direct Loans
- May allow borrowers to start repayment early (and potentially start qualifying for PSLF early)
 - Consolidation loans do not have grace periods, they enter repayment immediately
- Repayment term may be extended to 30 years, which lowers monthly payments, but adds to total repayment costs if you take full 30 years to repay and never accelerate payments
 - Maximum repayment term for unconsolidated federal loans is 25 years

POTENTIAL DISADVANTAGES TO CONSOLIDATION

- Partially negates an aggressive repayment strategy
 - Voluntary or additional payments cannot be targeted against higher interest rate loans such as Direct PLUS (Grad PLUS), because you only have one loan at one rate
 - You can still pay aggressively, but you are just not getting the best use of your additional payments
 - Borrowers interested in aggressive repayment often do not consolidate for this very reason
- Slightly higher interest rate
 - Interest rate on federal consolidation loans is a weighted (blended) rate of all loans being consolidated, rounded up an eighth of a percent (.125%) then fixed for life of loan
 - This is not a prohibitively higher rate and should not be a strong factor in your decision whether or not to consolidate
- Loss of grace periods on loans you are consolidating, if you consolidate too early
 - Consolidation loans come due immediately, as they have no grace period
- Loss of interest subsidy on Federal Perkins, Loans for Disadvantaged Students (LDS), and Health Professions Student Loans (HPSL), if these are included in consolidation
 - Balance on these loans is converted to unsubsidized status upon consolidation

IMPORTANT STEPS TO CONSOLIDATION AND HELPFUL HINTS

1. The DCL Application and Promissory note are available online at StudentAid.gov/consolidation.
2. Once you log in, your consolidation application should be pre-populated with your federal student loan record, you simply check off which loans you want to consolidate. You do not have to consolidate all your eligible loans, but there may be implications for not doing so.
3. You can expect the entire process to take from three to six weeks. We strongly encourage you to confirm the timing with the loan servicer you select to process and service your new Direct Consolidation Loan.
4. You need to remain in good standing on your loans during the consolidation process.
 - Pay loans you are including in your new consolidation loan when they come due or postpone payments until they are paid in full through consolidation.
 - Start consolidation early enough to allow time for consolidation to go through before the loans you are consolidating come due or their postponement period is up.
5. Your lender is the federal government, but you may select the loan servicer to both process your Direct Consolidation Loan Application and Promissory Note and to service your new DCL.
 - Borrowers interested in PSLF should select MOHELA to service their Direct Consolidation Loan, as MOHELA is currently the designated PSLF loan servicer and will help borrowers interested in PSLF confirm employer eligibility and track their payments.
6. In general, you do not forfeit deferment and forbearance options when you consolidate.
7. You should be able to confirm your application is accurate by reviewing the Direct Consolidation Loan Summary Sheet that should be sent prior to the loans you are consolidating being paid in full through consolidation. This let you be sure everything is correct before the consolidation loan is completed.
8. We strongly recommend you document the entire application process.

SO, ARE YOU A CANDIDATE FOR FEDERAL CONSOLIDATION?

You MAY be if:

- You have multiple loan servicers and want the convenience of one loan and one loan servicer
- You have some federal non-Direct Loans (for example, Federal Perkins, LDS, HPSL) and are interested in Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF) and thus want to ensure you maximize your potential forgiveness amount under PSLF
- You have some non-Direct Loans, but want to repay your entire student loan portfolio with an Income Driven Repayment plan like PAYE or SAVE
- You want to start repayment (and possibly PSLF eligibility) early

You MAY NOT be if:

- You already have one loan servicer
- You are interested in aggressive repayment (or may be at some point) and want to target additional payments on your highest rate loans(s)
- You are not interested in PSLF so you don't care what kind of federal loans you have
- Your entire federal loan balance already consists of nothing but Direct Loans
